I am a consultant for our central services division. My core role is devising and driving the firm's technology strategy, ensuring our clients and client service is at the heart of everything we do.

With over 20 years' experience in a technology focused role within law firms, my current role is to ensure that we have technology strategy that supports our business and our clients' needs today, and in the future.

Our goal is to embrace technology that enables the best client experience.

'Spark' our programme of innovation, encourages a creative culture embracing the latest technology and re-imagining how we deliver legal services. We work closely with our clients to design solutions that reduce the effort to achieve their goals.

My passion is to engage with people to understand their needs and challenges and translate that into how technology can help.
