I help clients to avoid or resolve their business disputes. Clients value my straight-talking, pragmatic, and commercial approach.

I work with businesses and individuals to help understand and resolve their disputes, with a focus on advising shareholders and directors in corporate disputes and advising businesses in contract disputes.

I also work with asset-based lenders to pursue guarantees and recover monies from debtors where complex contractual and equitable defences are raised, and act in contentious insolvency matters, either for the officeholder or to defend directors and shareholders against their claims.

My experience has shown that clients generally want to achieve a balance of the best result at the minimum cost, whilst protecting their reputation. I have a wealth of trial experience but also recognise that trials can sometimes be a demonstration of failure by at least one of the parties. I help clients to resolve their disputes through negotiation and alternative dispute resolution, including mediation.
