

AI and data for lunch: May 2024

A live 45 minute webinar (including audience Q&A) for everyone interested in AI, technology, privacy and information rights.

Here's what was discussed:

In this webinar hosted by Matthew Holman, we dove into the complexities and possibilities of UK AI regulation. Joined in the studio by Lord Holmes of Richmond MBE, he explained why he has drafted the UK's first AI Regulation Bill.

In this episode, we discussed key developments that have happened in the world of AI, data protection and tech law since you saw us last time. We then had a special interview with Lord Holmes, a Conservative member of the House of Lords and the author of the UK's first AI Regulation Bill. This was a key discussion where we heard insights directly from the policymaker shaping the future of AI in the UK.

The episode ends with our team of AI enthusiasts who brought to the table three incredible new applications or advancements in the field of AI since our last meeting.

Previous webinars:

Did you miss the previous webinars in this series? Catch up now.

- March 2024 webinar: AI and data for lunch
- April 2024 webinar: AI and data for lunch

Matthew Holman

Partner