

Cripps maintains place in the Times Best Law Firms 2023

Cripps has once again earned a coveted place in The Times Best Law Firms 2023 listing.

Each year, the newspaper lists the top 250 legal practices for business, public and private client law in England and Wales.

Cripps was noted for its focus on serving corporate, real estate and private clients from its offices in Tunbridge Wells and London, with its inheritance and succession planning practice receiving a commendation.

The list is compiled by Statista, an international research firm. Earlier in the year, researchers asked more than 4,400 solicitors and barristers to recommend the best law firms in a wide range of categories. Respondents cannot nominate their own practice or vote more than once.

“We are delighted to maintain our place in this respected list,” said Gavin Tyler, managing partner at Cripps. “We are totally committed to continuing to improve our service and building long lasting relationships. It is great to receive independent recognition of the progress we are making.”
