

Cripps partner re-elected to the Board of the French Chamber of Great Britain

Olivier Morel, partner, has been re-elected to the Board of the French Chamber of Great Britain at its most recent AGM.

The French Chamber of Great Britain was established in 1883 and is one of the most active Franco-British business networks in the UK. With over 400 companies of all sizes and sectors in its membership, it is the hub of key relationships, conversations, insights and support for Franco-British business.

Olivier is an international partner, qualified in both England and France. With over three decades of experience, he provides strategic legal support and solutions to international groups investing in the UK. He works closely with clients to help them make a success of their UK investment, using his legal and cross-border project management expertise in Franco-British and international business ventures.

“I am honoured and proud to be re-elected to the Board,” said Morel. “Alongside my fellow Board members and the great team at the Chamber, we can continue the crucial work of fostering the very strong bond of commerce and friendship between our two great nations – a crucial role in these challenging times. It’s a thoroughly rewarding experience to be part of a thriving international business network and dovetails with the work I do for our clients.”
